The terms Data Controller, Data Processor, Data Subject and Personal Data have the meaning given to them in the UK Data Protection Legislation.

Our Role as a Data Processor

For the purposes of the Data Protection Legislation, Locale is a Data Processor, which means we process personal data on behalf of our customers. Our customers (the property management company or the property developers) remain the Data Controller for personal data processed via the portal we provide to you. They trust us to process data about you - their tenants or residents and other visitors to their site. We can only process personal data in accordance with their instructions and their purposes.

Who is the Data Controller?

The organisation which engaged Locale to provide this portal to their employees, residents, and tenants. They have determined the purposes for which your personal data will be processed, and we enable this to take place through our portal software for the duration of our contract with them, and an agreed period after contract expiry.

You are the Data Subject

If you see the term 'data subject' being used, we are referring to you, the portal user, whose data we are processing in order to enable you to engage with the property developers or the property management company, receive information and offers from them, as well as access services available to you as a resident, tenant, or employee of that building.

If our customers sign up for certain "partner" services we offer, your personal data will be shared with a sub-Data Processor, who The Locale Group have partnered with to offer further additional services. We have taken our responsibility to select a sub-Data Processor who complies with all relevant data protection legislation seriously and have undertaken appropriate checks to ensure that the personal data processed will remain secure. Locale can only process the personal data in accordance with instructions given by our Customers (the property developers or property management company) and for the purposes identified by them. We will notify you if the services you choose involve personal data being shared with partner companies.

You may have been pre-registered to your building portal with personal information provided by your building teams. If this is the case, you will have received an email notification inviting you to activate your portal account. If you choose not to register, your account will remain inactive on the portal. Building teams are able to access the first names, surnames and email addresses of users they have registered in this way via selected modules to facilitate their FM processes and auditing. You can ask to remove your pre-registered details from the portal, via your building teams, at any time
